“There is a tide in the affairs of men, Which takes at the flood, leads on to fortune.”
Julius Caesar IV, 3, 218

Floating on the tide to find their fortune was the goal of the 1961 Seniors. One year signifying the end of a long journey, was a temporal pause before they stood on the longest and most exciting pilgrimage. A full year, rich with memories in which the Seniors lived each moment expeditiously, anxiously awaiting the time to pass yet, reluctant to ever render the special memories to the sea of life.
The time for parting has come, alas
We must say AU REVOIR to the Senior Class
Wishes of good fortune and congratulation
Are sent with some sadness on this graduation
